Al Ain University Organizes a Blood Donation Campaign

The Deanship of Student Affairs at Al Ain University (Abu Dhabi Campus) organized a blood donation campaign under the slogan "Who saved it" in cooperation with the Abu Dhabi Blood Bank - SEHA, as part of its continuous activities to serve the community.

In turn, the Deanship of Student Affairs affirmed the university's keenness to organize regular blood donation campaigns based on the university's keenness to enhance its social responsibility, spread its values aimed at communication and social solidarity, and encourage volunteer and charitable work.

The campaign witnessed a remarkable turnout from members of the academic and administrative staff and students, in response to the campaign and its objectives, and their desire to support all forms of communication with the community and to provide possible humanitarian support.
